

COVER LETTER

My name is Leandro, I am 28 years old with background on the musical industry.

I have recently started my journey as a developer and I am quite excited about it as I feel I have always been keen at logic and problem-solving.

One could ask me: Why should I consider a former musician as a good candidate for a development career?

Well, actually I am a graduated composer, and you would be probably amazed to know that composition and programming have a whole lot in common, not only on the logic way of thinking that both require, but also and foremost both areas are focused on putting together puzzles to solve problems, or create a new experience.

I hope to be able to contribute with your team, as I have really identified myself with your business culture and environment, I have enclosed my CV for your review. I appreciate your time and consideration for my application.

Yours sincerely,

Leandro Parisi
